Michigan Guard Arrives Saturday

Following a quiet week at Camp Grayling, approximately 8200 Michigan Army National Guardsmen, under the command of Maj. Gen. Clarence C. Schnipke, will arrive in camp this Saturday, July 31.

Joining the 8200 Michigan citizen-soldiers for their 2-week summer training will be about 1000 U. S. Army Reservists.

Michigan's 46th Brigade of the 38th Infantry Division is included in this training period.

This encampment, which ends Aug. 14, will wind up the summer training for Guardsmen on the 128,000 acre military reservation for this year.

Playgrounds to Close Friday

On Friday, July 30, the supervised playgrounds will close for the summer. This is the first year there has been supervised playgrounds in the Grayling area. This program was sponsored by the Community School Program of the Crawford Au-Sable Schools.

Playgrounds were operated for six weeks this summer at the Grayling Elementary School, the St. Mary's School and Frederic Elementary School. An average of 155 Grayling area children took advantage of these playgrounds daily. During the course of the six weeks program over 400 area children took advantage of the supervised facilities.

DNR to Draw Up Rules to Control Excessive Canoeing on Streams

LANSING — The Department of Natural Resources was directed by its Commission last week to draft rules and regulations within the next 60 days to control the use of canoes on Michigan rivers where the heavy use of these watercraft is threatening the resources of such waters.

Commissioner Hilary F. Snell of Grand Rapids pushed for preparation of the controls, explaining that he has observed cases in which sheer numbers of canoeists have "overwhelmed" the Pine, Pere Marquette, Manistee, and AuSable rivers.

He said the jamming of those rivers by canoeists destroyed esthetic values, damaged fish spawning beds, and caused trampling down of stream banks.

The Grand Rapids commissioner indicated that such problems may be burgeoning on other streams because of the people crush, and he pressed for regulations to meet the situation wherever canoeing use has gotten out of hand.

Commissioner Snell added that he believes the DNR is empowered under Public Act 17 to formulate rules and regulations to control these problems. That Act, spelling out the basic responsibilities of the DNR, gives the Department broad authority to protect and conserve re-

AUTHOR VISITS BEAR ARCHERY — James Dickey, author of the best-selling novel "Deliverance" autographed copies of his book at Bear Archery over the weekend. He and his son visited Grayling to look over the Bear manufacturing plant and the Fred Bear Museum. "Deliverance" concerns a canoe trip by four men down a wild Georgia stream and features extensive use of archery equipment against local elements. Bear supplied the equipment used in the just-completed Warner Brothers Film version of the book, in which Jon Voight plays the lead. Dickey also wrote the screenplay, composed the original musical score and played the part of a sheriff. The film is scheduled for release in early March, 1972.

From Centennial

Where Will Profits Go?

The Grayling Area Centennial Committee will decide on Wednesday, August 11th, what worthwhile project will receive any profits derived from the celebration to be held next year.

Al Barkley, President of the Centennial Committee, has appointed Mrs. Rex McMillen, Mrs. Billie Forbes, and Mrs. Howard Taylor as a committee to present proposed projects. They are asking for the cooperation of the community.

The project, to be considered, must be of a historical, educational, or charitable nature. Any one wishing to submit a proposal should include the name of the non-profit organization desiring funds, a feasible working plan for the project, the cost of the project, where it would be located, and a summary of the value to our community. All proposals to be considered must be in the hands of the committee not later than Wednesday, August 4th, and must be in writing.

The arrival of a real three-ring European style circus takes place in Grayling as the big King Bros. Circus arrives at daybreak for performances at 4:00 and 8:00 p.m. on the circus grounds at 72 East at City Limits under the sponsorship of Grayling Volunteer Fire Dept.

The circus will arrive on three colorful convoys at daybreak and the always interesting and traditional spectacle of watching a tented circus city arise on circus morning is expected to start approximately at 8:00 a.m. at the circus grounds.

Most of the youngsters will probably see their first traditional circus under the "Big Top" with all of its nostalgic excitement for the first time. Many of the oldsters on hand will be re-living some golden memories.

The usual swift unloading of animals and equipment will be handled by circus workmen aided by the circus performing elephants, and out of apparent chaos will come orderly precision as the tented city is erected.

There are more than 100 circus stars and performers in the 1969 edition of the big show, with several making their first appearance in America this year, having been brought from European and Asian countries by King Bros. Circus for this year's program.

YOUTH PROGRAM AT CALVARY BAPTIST

The Centennial is next year on Sunday, August 1, at 7:30 p.m. the Calvary Baptist Youth Group will present the entire evening service at Calvary Baptist Church, entitled "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow". The group will be attired in the dress of the bygone era. Everyone is welcome.

Welsh-Wright Vows Exchanged

Jane Ruth Welsh and John H. Raymond Wright II were united in marriage at St. Francis Episcopal Church on Saturday, July 17, at eleven o'clock in the morning.

Jane is the daughter of Robert R. Welsh and the late Barbara Welsh. John is the son of Mrs. John Lawrence and the late John R. Wright.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father John Carlton and Father J. R. C. Patterson, now of St. Albans in Bay City.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of white taffeta with an empire bodice and bouffant sleeves with venetian lace inserts. Her overskirt was embroidered nylon organza. She wore daisies in her hair and carried a bridal bouquet of daisies, red and pink roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Amy Welsh. Marianne Wright was the junior bridesmaid. Both girls wore floor length red and white dotted swiss gowns with puffed sleeves and empire waists. They carried bouquets of daisies.

Timothy Wright served as his brother's best man and the ushers were James Wright of Matawan and Thomas Gagnier of Battle Creek, also brothers of the groom.

A reception was held in the Parish Hall immediately following the ceremony with a luncheon being served. The day's theme was carried out in decorations.

Following a honeymoon in the Upper Peninsula and Canada they are at home on Norway St.

Both the bride and groom are 1970 graduates of Grayling High School and will continue at Kirtland Community College this fall.

Mrs. Lawrence chose a pale gold knit dress for the wedding.

Out of town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Miller of Chicago and Venezuela, and the groom's great-grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Armstrong of Higgins Lake. Others came from Kalamazoo, Plymouth, Chicago, Gaylord, and Grand Rapids.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

My sons, Jack and Freddie, are great surfboard riders. They can outride me any day, and because there's not much at which they can beat me (yet), they are tickled pink about it.

I don't mind. I remember how proud I was the day I beat my Dad at golf. He shook my hand and acknowledged that I was growing up.

I learned much from Dad. He was a lot of fun, and yet I valued just as much his serious moments. There was no doubt about his deep and abiding love for God. The memory of his quiet voice speaking of God steadied me through several rough spots in my life.

That's why on Sunday mornings I start to church with a boy on each side of me. I want God to be a reality in their lives as He has been in mine.

Deciding Rates

A bill before the Michigan Legislature has a unique characteristic — it will benefit both the public and the public utilities.

The Regulatory Reform Bill, introduced by Sen. Basil W. Brown (D-Detroit) should prompt better and closer regulation of utility rates and help protect against deterioration of utility service.

The traditionally long delays in deciding public utility rate increases or decreases in Michigan would be limited if Michigan adopts a plan which is in effect in 31 other states.

The proposed law provides a 10-month period for study and hearings by the Michigan Public Service Commission on rate increase requests and six months for hearing rate reduction cases. If an increase is not decided within the 10-month period, the proposed increase can be placed in effect, under bond, and subject to refund with interest. If a rate cut lasts longer than six months, any cut finally ordered would be retroactive to the end of the six-month period.

Under present procedures, the Michigan Public Service Commission faces no deadline on the length of the rate hearings. Some rate cases have dragged on for years, resulting in financial inefficiency costly to utility firms and customers. Lengthy delays in rate cases keep the utility firms far behind the economic market and make it difficult to finance the maintenance of good utility service.

The proposed new legislation is supported by the state's four major utility firms — Michigan Consolidated Gas, Michigan Bell Telephone, Detroit Edison and Consumers Power. It also has the support of the Michigan Public Service Commission whose chairman, Willis F. Ward, says, "this bill will strengthen our efforts to get utilities an other parties involved in rate hearings to meet our deadlines and at the same time speed up the process by permitting appeals of our rate cases to go directly to the Court of Appeals."

Richard E. Whitmer, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, endorses the legislation. "Effective regulation demands reasonably prompt action in adjusting rates. When utility rate hearings drag on for more than a year, the PSC cannot do its job of controlling utility rates. The consumer pays for these delays, either in excessive rates or deteriorating service or because long delays can result in shortages of gas and electricity that prevent industries from expanding or locating in Michigan."

The bill will not affect the level of utility rates set by the PSC, but will simply improve the procedures by which rates are set.

It is clearly in the public interest.

Survey Shows Concern About Litter Around Houghton Lake

Litter and brush in the roadside ditches at Houghton Lake were concerns expressed by property owners.

James Novy, aquatic biologist working on the Houghton Lake study, indicated litter was the most often expressed concern on the questionnaire distributed to property owners. They wanted to know, "who is responsible for cleaning up the road ditches?"

Willard Bosselman, County Extension Director suggests that property owners adjacent to the ditches could take care of the litter problems themselves, however in case of brush removal the County Road Commission should be contacted to do the job.

Bosselman suggested also that a Houghton Lake Property Owners Association could be valuable in keeping tabs on needs of the lake and seeking solutions to the needs. He reported the property owners association at Higgins Lake is very successful in seeking solution to lake problems.

Bernard Farmer, Grayling Township Supervisor, reported the Lake Margrethe Property Owners Association is very active in handling problems which arise on that lake. Bosselman added that a property owners association can help keep the township boards and county boards of commissioners informed of their needs.

Senator Asks National Fishing And Hunting Day

Hunters and fishermen will get national recognition for their contributions to conservation if Congress passes a joint resolution recently introduced by Sen. Thomas James McIntyre (N.H.).

S. J. Resolution 117 asks that President Richard Nixon declare the fourth Saturday of each September "National Hunting and Fishing Day."

Sen. McIntyre said, "Since there is no present national recognition of the many and worthwhile contributions of the American hunter and angler, I am asking Congress and the President to declare this special day. Hunters and anglers traditionally have led in the effort to preserve our natural resources."

The resolution has been referred to the Senate Committee on the Judiciary. Sen. James O. Eastland (Miss.) is chairman.

In calling for a "National Hunting and Fishing Day," Sen. McIntyre said, "In the congestion and the complexities, the tensions and frustrations of today's life, the need for outdoor recreation — the opportunity to 'get away from it all' — has become of crucial importance. There are few pursuits providing a better chance for healthy exercise, peaceful solitude, and appreciation of the great outdoors than hunting and fishing."

Warren Page, executive vice president of the National Shooting Sports Foundation, predicted that sportsmen all over the nation would support passage of the resolution. Mr. Page said, "Since the turn of the century sportsmen have been fighting a lonely battle for the wise use of our natural resources. It is only fair that they be recognized for their leadership in conservation as well as for fostering healthful outdoor recreation."

The text of the resolution, following the introductory reasons, states:

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President of the United States declare the fourth Saturday of each September as 'National Hunting and Fishing Day' to provide that deserved recognition, to recognize the esthetic, health, and recreational virtues of hunting and fishing, to dramatize the continued need for gun and boat safety, and to rededicate ourselves to the conservation and respectful use of our wildlife and natural resources."

Correction

The name of the recently published book about the AuSable River Valley is "Whispering Trees", not "Whispering Pines" as stated in last week's Avalanche. Arthur G. Kerle is the author.

Democratic Candidates Lining Up

It's still more than a year before the 1972 primary to pick a Democratic candidate for the United States Senate to challenge Republican Senator Robert P. Griffin.

Almost every month—or so it seems yet another potential emerges.

Griffin, of course, is solid as the Republican party's choice. There may be a nitpick type challenge from the right; but barring completely unforeseen developments, is will be Griffin again in 1972 as the Republican standard bearer.

The Democratic picture is not nearly so clear. Already at least six potentials are reportedly testing their senatorial wings.

The latest of these appears to be Macomb County Cong. James G. O'Hara, who has let it be known that he is "thinking about running" for the Griffin senate seat.

O'Hara, who has been in Congress since 1965, is well-known around the U.S. Capitol, but is much less well-known around Michigan. He is a Democratic party stalwart, but in my view would have a tough time making a statewide name, including a crowded Democratic primary.

Several others also are all but running. The most obvious candidates are Frank J. Kelly, Michigan's attorney general and Jerome P. Cavanagh, former mayor of Detroit who had a go at the Democratic nomination in 1966, but lost to former Gov. George Menning Williams who in turn lost to Griffin.

Then there are more: State Sen. Coleman Young, who also is the Democratic national committeeman from Michigan; Wayne Circuit Judge Blair Moody, Jr., the son of a former senator and apparently with eyes for more than judicial office; and Sander Levin, former state senator, former state Democratic chairman and losing Democratic candidate in 1970 for governor.

Out of the field so far, it appears that Kelly is head and shoulders above the rest in regard to general public exposure throughout Michigan, which would be of extreme importance in a statewide primary, especially if it is a crowded field.

Of course, part of the strategy of pre-primary jockeying is to see how many potential opponents you can muscle out of the field before the partition filing deadline. For example, all six of those potential candidates mentioned here will not end up in the primary; several will read the polls and take the political pulse and defer in favor of one or two strong front-runners.

But in order to get into consideration, you have to make some such statement as O'Hara has done that you are "thinking about running." Then you, too, can get in on the pre-primary action.

The Democratic primary in 1972 is especially important because it is the only avenue left open to the senate for aspiring Democrats for at least six years. Incumbent Sen. Phil Hart has a humongous race on the other Senate seat, probably for as long as he wants it. Hart has proved his popularity with Michigan voters beyond a doubt, the last time in the face of some adverse publicity regarding his family's activities. But Hart again won by a landslide, and his fellow Democrats must assume that seat is his for as long as he wants it.

And if Democrats really believe, as O'Hara said, that whoever wins the nomination against Griffin will be elected, then the second seat is gone for many years, too.

It boils down to a simple fact: If any Democrat in Michigan really yearns to serve in the Senate, then 1972 must be the year for him to try.

Therefore, we will hear a lot more trial balloons like O'Hara's that this Democrat or that one is "thinking about running" for his party's nomination against Griffin.

For many Democrats, it will be 1972 or never.

It boils down to a simple fact: If any Democrat in Michigan really yearns to serve in the Senate, then 1972 must be the year for him to try.

Therefore, we will hear a lot more trial balloons like O'Hara's that this Democrat or that one is "thinking about running" for his party's nomination against Griffin.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Let's Have Some Quiet Please
By Jim Fitzgerald

And then I wrote . . .

The mail brought a question from a woman who'd seen me at a church supper. She wondered if I knew that I always have a "shy look" on my face.

The fact is, I am not so much shy as I am defensive. I use sort of a glazed, flinchy look to defend myself against an attack of small talk.

I am lousy at talking about nothing. I first realized this when I was a small boy, getting my hair cut. The barber was continually asking me what I learned in school that day. There is a bright question. I couldn't think of an intelligent answer and besides, I couldn't believe the barber really cared a darn about my schooling. So I limited my answers to one syllable, mumbled. Or sometimes I pretended I didn't hear him.

My dad went to the same barber. One day they talked about me and Dad came home to say: "The barber says you are a remarkable boy. He says he cut your hair three times before he realized you were deaf and dumb."

Today I use magazines to defend myself against barbers. But I can't live with my nose in a book ("But he sure tries," yaps my wife) and thus I've taken on protective coloring which might easily be mistaken for shyness, rudeness, or even snobbishness. The idea is to discourage anyone from asking me how I like the weather.

Some people, mostly women, are expert at small talk. My wife is the champion of the world. There are people in this world who don't know my name, but they know I don't wear pajamas because they bumped into my wife in a doctor's waiting room.

They end up discussing such earth-shaking subjects as muddy little boys, rice instead of potatoes, cats, college girls, and the health of Pat's cousin's brother-in-law's goldfish.

There is no such thing as two or more women, even total strangers, sitting silently in the same room. They'll talk if they have to discuss the cracks in the ceiling. On the other hand, I stood in line for three years in the army and never talked to the guy in front of me. I don't know if there was a guy behind me because I never turned around. I was afraid it might be a barber.

I think a man with nothing to say, shouldn't say it. I think silence is golden (you may quote that, if you wish). I think I am doing a guy a favor if I don't ask him if he's had enough rain. I think it is friendly not to disturb a man who is obviously thinking about a big fish he almost caught. The man alone at the end of the bar is not necessarily a lonely soul who would love to hear why the Tigers blew the pennant. He may be seeing splendid reflections of his childhood in his beer.

My wife says I am "just not friendly." Measured by the most popular yardstick, I guess I'm not. But there should be another measuring stick for us quiet types. After all, I'm willing to share great gobs of my silence with perfect strangers, free. Any stranger who says that isn't friendly, he's not perfect.

I do not tell the garrulous man to shut up. He should not tell me to speak up. That's simple courtesy, isn't it? Nowhere is it written on a stone tablet that it is a sin to enjoy silence. No law says a nightmare is more important to the soul than a daydream. A man should be awakened from neither except for good reason.

Hotels supply "Do Not Disturb" signs to hang on doorknobs. Until I hang such a sign around my neck, it must depend upon my "shy look" to ward off idle conversation. This look says plainly I will faint dead if anyone asks if it is cold enough for me.

But if it is anything important, just knock on my nose.

Consumers Want to Know

What is a trash masher?

Garbage may be put into this new appliance, but foods that might cause excessive odor such as fish, onions, etc., should not be added. The trash masher compactor is designed to handle cans, bottles, plastic containers and paper.

What are the basic advantages of this new kitchen appliance?

It saves on frequent trips to the trash can and on the number and size of trash cans needed in the home. The trash masher compactor will hold a week's worth of trash for the average family of four. The trash is compacted into a rectangular bag, 16 x 16 x 6 inches, which holds the equivalent of about three 20-gal. trash cans.

What are the installation requirements?

The trash masher compactor is designed to fit the same space as a 15" kitchen cabinet. A 120 volt, 15 amp fused normal household circuit will do. (Subject to local codes). Four leveling legs come with the unit. It requires no drains, no vents, and no special wiring or bolting.

Is the trash masher compactor expensive to operate?

Basing power consumption on 10 cycles a day, the trash masher compactor costs less than one dollar per year to operate in most parts of the country. Bags cost around 30 to 35 cents each and spray can be purchased for under two dollars a can. A normal household will use about a penny's worth of spray a day.

How does the trash masher compactor operate?

Each time you have an item of trash—a can, bottle or carton—drop it in, shut the drawer and press a button. A ram, driven by two power screws, descends under 2,000 lbs. of force to compact the waste. Waste should be compacted each time something is added to the drawer to increase compacting, allowing you to get more into the unit.

Between 1958 and 1967 an average of 14,413 concerns failed each year, most of them because they were unable to earn a profit.

I had the unusual pleasure the other day of meeting and spending some time with a Real Live Literary Giant. James Dickey, author of the run-away best seller "Deliverance", was visiting in Grayling over the weekend. He brought his thirteen year old son with him. Dickey, who has traveled all over the world, was most impressed with Grayling, its easy way of life and the obvious contented attitude of the people he met. He said that he hoped all of us really knew how fortunate we were to live in this area. "Deliverance" is a suspense thriller about a canoe trip four men make down a wild Georgia river before it is dammed up. Warner Brothers has just finished filming the story, for release in early March. Dickey wrote the screen play, did the original musical score and even played the part of a Georgia sheriff. An accomplished guitarist, he played some of the music from "Deliverance" for a small group the other day. When I asked him what rating the film would have, he replied that he hoped for an "R". When I looked a bit surprised, he added that he was afraid it would have an "X". Apparently canoeing can be more interesting than most people realize. Read the book, if you can find it. It's available in paperback now, published by Dell.

Dickey was talking about the pollution problem and quoted a poet friend of his as writing, "Man took the moon and lost the Earth." "It's a poor swap," he added.

Scheer Motors Participates In Vocational Training For Youth

Many of the boys at Camp LaVictoire have been enrolled in a service station attendant course as part of their educational and vocational training program. However, in the past, because of the lack of facilities at camp, the boys were not able to get the practical mechanical and maintenance training that would be helpful in obtaining employment.

For the past six months, however, Scheer Motors has been kind enough to donate the use of their garage two nights per week so that the boys can be instructed in such skills as lubrications, tune-ups, oil changes, tire repair, muffler replacement, etc. Tom Welsh, Service Manager at Scheer Motors, is providing the technical instruction. The Camp staff expresses their appreciation to both Mr. Welsh and Mr. Scheer for their contributions.

Scheer Motors has also been providing the camp with a Driver Education vehicle for the past several years.

Community Organizations . . .

Parents . . . Youth

. . . Interested Citizens

Recent events in the life of our County and Community have demonstrated forcibly the need for qualified workers among our youth. Workers who will be able to meet their social, spiritual, and emotional needs. We need someone who will help us bridge the Communications gap between the Generations; and to provide positive alternatives for the activities of our young people.

Recognizing this need, the membership of Michelson Memorial Church has set out to hire a trained Youth Worker. As of September 1st, they will be hiring a college and seminary graduate whose main responsibilities will be working with our community's youth; counseling; organizing for work projects and social events; training adult leadership.

We have taken this page of advertising for two reasons:

(1) We wanted you to know our concern about our youth and what steps we are taking toward meeting those needs.

(2) We are asking the support of all concerned citizens, community organizations, youth, and interested citizens for this Youth Worker. Your support may take several forms; volunteering to assist the worker in youth functions; financial support for her salary and programs; prayers for her success; and publicizing among our youth of her presence.

If you or your organization would like to help financially sponsor this program, a special Youth Involvement Fund has been set up by the Michelson Memorial Church, which funds will be used only for the Youth Worker and the youth program of our community. You may contribute to this Fund by making a check payable to Michelson Memorial Church Youth Fund and send it to the Church to the Attention of Rev. Frederick, or Mr. Melvin Nielson.

The following organizations and individuals are already helping to sponsor this work:

Ausable Council Urges Green Belt for Roscommon

The Ausable River Watershed Study Council at their annual meeting Tuesday, July 20, passed a resolution urging the village of Roscommon to green belt the South Branch flowing thru the village, according to Willard Bosselman, County Extension Director.

Higgins township which surrounds the village has been in green belt zoning. Roscommon has a zoning ordinance which only would require an amendment.

Bosserman was re-elected to the presidency of the Ausable group. Al Westervelt of Grayling was elected vice president and Mrs. Earl (Marilyn) Longworth was appointed secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

The group adopted a land use position which goes beyond green belt zoning. The position urged a state land use policy which would provide guidance to local units of government in developing and administering local ordinances pertaining to the development and use of land. The policy, Bosserman said, would make full use of green belt zoning, tax deferrals, easement purchases, state land exchanges, land purchases and other measures to implement the land use policies. The Ausable Council feels such a policy is necessary to protect watersheds and water sources, forests, preserving scenic and historic areas, parklands, wilderness and beach reserves, conserving endemic plants, fish, and wildlife, preventing floods and soil erosion. The policy would also delineate, urban, rural and agriculture areas.

Robert Borak, Region II Department of Natural Resources forester gave a progress report on improvements being made to land use facilities along the Ausable River. Bids will be let soon to make improvements to the Chamber of Commerce Camp site in Mio, he reported. The canoe camp site at Parmalee Bridge will be improved. Canoe pick up will be halted at the camp site. A new canoe landing will be constructed on the south side of the river, near Parmalee bridge.

Canoe camping and drive-in camping will be separated at Canoe Harbor on the South Branch of the Ausable. This camp will also be closed for canoe pick up. Canoe liveries have voluntarily stopped picking up at Canoe Harbor.

White Pine on the main stream will have extensive work done to the bank to protect it from eroding as a result of the heavy traffic it receives, Borak said.

The Ausable group asked the Department of Natural Resources through its representative, Robert Borak, to place an alum.
